GOVERNMENT WILL HAVE TO PAY RAIL ROAD HALF BILLION

ESTIMATE DEFICIT OF THE RAILROADS TO SEPT. 1 WILL BE THAT AMOUNT, WHICH THE GOVERNMENT GUARANTEED

RALPH COUCH,
(Staff Correspondent United Press)

Washington, July 28—The government under its agreement with the railroads soon will be called on to pay them at least $490,000,000 to meet the deficits incurred during March, April, May, June, July, and August. Director Parmelee of the bureau of railroad economics, estimated today.

Parmelee characterized this estimate as "very conservative."

It probably will be more than $500,000,000 he said.

"This is nearly twice as much as the biggest deficit incurred in any twelve months of the government operation," Parmelee pointed out. The last deficit is estimated on the basis of six months.

ADJUSTMENT OF MINERS' STRIKE IS NOW IN SIGHT

FEDERAL INVESTIGATION OF STRIKE IS UNDER WAY

Federal investigation of the unauthorized strike of coal miners in Illinois, Indiana and Kansas was under way today as mine union officials and operators began maneuvering for a peaceful settlement independent of government action.

Thomas T. Brewster, chairman of the operators' committee of the central competitive field in response to a telegram from John L. Lewis, international miners' president, today called a conference of operators in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and western Pennsylvania to determine whether to accept the plan for a joint conference with the miners.

Operators in the four states went into separate conferences early today. They were to telegraph their decision to Brewster at St. Louis who said he would accept the majority decision.

Union officials were in executive session in Indianapolis drafting proposals for presentation to the operators.

Closing of industrial plants in the middle west began today, according to reports. Steel plants around Chicago and Gary were laying off workers. Chicago was threatened rationing of water supply. Many concerns were reported burning oil.

Coal operators were expected to reply favorably to the telegram of John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers, requesting a joint conference to stamp out the strike in Illinois, Kansas and Indiana, threatening to spread to other fields and menace the nation's fuel supply.

RESOLUTE WINS FIFTH RACE AND THE AMERICA CUP

DEFEATS CHALLENGER BY OVER THIRTEEN MINUTES NOT INCLUDING THE TIME ALLOWANCE

LIPTON WILL BUILD NEW YACHT AND TRY TO RAISE THE CUP NEXT YEAR

(United Press)

New York, July 28—With America's cup saved to the New York Yacht club for at least another year, Resolute, the white defender, which yesterday crossed the finish line thirteen minutes and five seconds ahead of Shamrock IV, has ended her career.

With no celebration the Herreshoff yacht will be taken to the yards and dismantled. Nor will Lipton's challenger race again. She will be left behind when her owner returns to England to prepare for the fifth challenge in 1921 and to build his fifth Shamrock.

Designs for the next challenger and defender will not go forward until various suggested channels and routes and conditions of sea have been thoroughly discussed by the New York Yacht club. The 1920 series has undoubtedly satisfied yachtsmen that radical revisions are needed as a real test of boats and spirited contests are sought. It is altogether likely that the last cup race has been sailed off the Sandy Hook course. In the opinion of Charles Nicholson, Shamrock builder, who has talked with American yachtsmen the fickle nature of the wind and sea conditions about the Jersey coast makes real racing impossible. A course off Marble Head or Newport has been suggested.

The time allowance, Shamrock's bug bear might also be eliminated.

Shamrock's crew were as one in admitting today that they were beaten by a better boat and a better crew.

"We were beaten, but not disgraced," Captain Burton told the United Press today. "They had the better boat, but at least we gave them some anxious moments before they proved it. These have been wonderful races and those fellows over there (pointing to the Resolute) have been wonderful men to race against."

SNAKE-EATERS IN CONVENTION

Gathering Which Is Held Annually in North Africa Must Be a Repulsive Sight.

After a lapse of five years, the annual convention of the snake-eaters of northern Africa has lately been held. Seventeen of the most renowned reptile consumers from various parts of Tunis and Algeria took part.

An extraordinary feature of the convention was that most of the snake-eaters served in the French army during the war, many of them wearing the medals they won in France.

More than four hundred small snakes of various sizes were carefully measured and distributed to the competitors. A score-keeper watched each man, and the spectators cheered the "eaters" at the top of their voices.

The "eating" consisted of forcing a snake into the mouth as quickly as possible, but no bunching or rolling up of the reptiles was allowed. The snake had to be forced in head first, and as soon as the tail had disappeared, which it usually did with extraordinary rapidity, the competitor quickly snatched it out of his mouth and inserted another.

The man who finished his 24 snakes first was adjudged the winner, and was presented with a prize consisting of a round ball studded with brass nails and hung with brass chains, to which were attached silver and gold coins.

MIGHT BE CARRIED TOO FAR

Perkins was feeling decidedly queer; he couldn't get on with his work; he couldn't do anything. So he decided to pay a visit to the doctor.

"I don't feel up to the mark," he said to the man of medicine. "Can you give me a good tonic?"

With pursed lips the doctor surveyed him for a moment or two, and, rising from his chair, remarked:

"Has it ever occurred to you that there's a great deal in imagination, Mr. Perkins?"

"Certainly, doctor," answered Perkins.

"Then go out of this surgery and imagine that there's nothing the matter with you. Come back in a week and let me know how you feel."

The patient went, doctor himself and returned to the physician at the appointed time.

"Ah, ah," said the doctor. "You are feeling better now, I can see. Didn't I tell you there was a great deal in imagination?"

"That's true," said Perkins. "What is your charge?"

"Five dollars," said the doctor.

"Well, imagine you've got it!" said Perkins.—London Tit-Bits.

Says Mosquitoes Punctured Tire.

The biggest big mosquito story of the season is credited to Fred Zavatny, employed by the New York and New Haven Railroad company at Winsted, Conn. With a party of friends he motored in his car to Riverton, three or four miles distant, on a fishing trip. He left his car near the village and upon returning from the brook, he noticed that a spare tire fastened to the rear of the car was literally covered with giant "skeeters." They all seemed to be in working order, too, because when Zavatny had to use the new tire to replace a flat one on the way home he declared he found it had been punctured by the huge mosquitoes.

The two box cars which dropped off from the lower railroad bridge in Little Falls some time ago and have been lying in the river bed half submerged, were taken to the west bank of the river Monday and Tuesday the wrecker from Staples picked them up.

Restrain Mining Building Sand

Watertown, S. D., July 28—Whether the American Sand and Gravel Co., whose chief stockholders are residents of Aberdeen, with associates at Huron and a few other towns in this section of the state, will be privileged to mine building sand in Lake Kampska has become a somewhat absorbing question.

The local Chamber of Commerce has brought a restraining order before the circuit court to prevent the company's interference with the shore between the high water and the low water lines.

An application is pending before the state land commission of which Gov. Norbeck is the chairman, for the privilege of taking sand from the bed of the lake. Action on this application will establish a precedent for the entire state inasmuch as several similar cases are pending in one form or another. At the preliminary hearing a few days ago at Pierre, Gov. Norbeck was quoted as having said that the commission will endeavor to go to the bottom of the case as a matter of precedent.

POTATO FIELD ON SANDY SOIL

Yield of 250 to 300 Bushels Per Acre
From Soil Treated with Swift's
Fertilizer

RECORD IS MADE AT PRINCETON

It is a Mistaken Idea that Soil Composed Entirely of Sand Will Not Produce Prolific Crops

Sandy soil near Princeton has been made to yield most prolific crops and sandy soil where found near Brainerd will yield just as good when properly enriched.

R. L. Pitcher & Co. bought the old Chadbourne farm in Baldwin near Princeton—a farm that was considered practically worthless so far as productivity was concerned, says the Princeton Union.

But Mr. Sampson and Mr. Thomas inspected this "sand pile" and winked at one another. They said, "We'll buy this old rundown farm," and they did. In addition they bought other "good-for-nothing" farms until they had acquired 1,200 acres.

Then, in the spring, they went to work, planted 200 acres of potatoes and introduced their soil transformation process, and new methods of cultivation never before utilized in this part of the country. Many people laughed at them, saying, in effect, that if they obtained a crop of potatoes from that soil they could make apples grow on fence posts. When the skeptics, however, saw the vines, with heavy stocks, spring up they were amazed—they said a miracle had been performed, and, in a way, it had. But it was a mere miracle of soil transformation and improved methods of cultivation.

The soil transformation was effected simply by the scientific application of Swift's fertilizer, and the very latest machinery for cultivating and keeping down the weeds was used. Hence, land that was considered almost valueless had been brought to a state of perfection in which the yield of potatoes is estimated to reach from 250 to 300 bushels per acre. People are now coming from distant points on purpose to view this field of potatoes.

ENJOYED S. S. PICNIC

Swedish Bethany Sunday School and Friends Spend Day at West's Place

The members and friends of the Swedish Bethany Sunday school enjoyed their annual picnic at West's summer resort on North Long lake last Sunday. The day was ideal for an outing and the grounds and bathing beach are of the first order.

The crowd began gathering early in the day and it was one of the largest that has attended a picnic for many years.

Rev. H. J. Hoijer, a missionary who has for many years worked in Russia and throughout Europe and Asia related some of his early experiences in bringing natives of Turkey, Persia and Arabia through Russia to the colleges of Sweden, who later returned to their native countries and did much to spread Christianity among their fellow countrymen.

The bathing was greatly enjoyed by both young and old. George West remarked that it reminded him of Coney Island to see so many bathers in the water, there being about 35 in the lake at one time. Altogether the day was greatly enjoyed by all.

HERE'S PROOF

A Brainerd Citizen Tells of His Experience

You have a right to doubt statements of people living far away but can you doubt Brainerd endorsement?

Read it:

A. B. Grewell, retired farmer, 405 S. Bluff Ave., says: "I am getting on in years and my kidneys get out of order now and then. The kidney secretions change in quantity and color and sometimes I have to get up four or five times at night. I have dizzy and fainting spells and a dull pain through the center of my back. When I feel these symptoms coming on, I take Doan's Kidney Pills and they bring me around in good shape."

Wood Alcohol

The wood alcohol used in the United States is obtained chiefly from the destructive distillation of wood—hard wood, birch, maple, oak, elm and alder being those most frequently used. The chief uses to which it is put are for the denaturing of grain alcohol; for various purposes in lines of common manufacture (especially as a solvent in the preparation of shellac, varnish, dyes, etc.); as an ingredient in medical and pharmaceutical preparations; in the chemical industries and as a fuel and illuminant. Only within recent years has wood alcohol become so dangerous to life and sight.

Formerly it was a dark, bad-smelling, bad-tasting fluid which no one was tempted to drink. Later a process was developed by which this color, smell and taste are removed. Wood alcohol, when purified in this way, looks, smells and tastes like grain alcohol, and may thus be easily substituted for it by unscrupulous persons.

To Restore Respiration.

The method introduced by Schafer is the simplest, least injurious and most effective in restoring a person who has been rescued from drowning.

The subject is laid on the ground in a prone position, with a thickly-folded garment under his chest. The operator kneels by his side or athwart him, facing his head and placing his hands on each side over the lower ribs of the subject. He slowly throws the weight of his body forward, and thus presses upon the thorax of the subject and forces air out of the lungs; he then gradually relaxes the pressure by bringing his body up again, but without removing his hands.

This is repeated rapidly at the rate of 12 or 15 times a minute, until normal respiration begins, or until all hope of restoration is given up."

IN OLD COOMASSIE

West African Town Not Always
A Quiet Spot.

Considered Thoroughly Up to Date
Today, It Was the Scene, Twenty Years Ago, of Grim Tragedy of Frontier Warfare.

Marjorie and Alan Letheridge, the special correspondents of the London Daily Telegraph in West Africa, write as follows from Coomassie, capital of the British colony of Ashanti:

The first warm days often find us quite unprepared in the matter of clothes. This is especially true after a cold, late spring such as the one just passed, which offered little incentive to buying thin frocks. So, if we have delayed in our shopping, writes a prominent fashion correspondent, it means that we confront a real problem—that of getting a suitable warm weather wardrobe together quickly. The difficulty is to get clothes that will give service for the greatest number of occasions. In the summer we frequently face the unpleasant fact that we have not the right dress for the occasion, and nothing is more disconcerting than the feeling of being unsuitably dressed.

We are realizing more and more the need of the practical combined with beauty in our clothes. The sensible woman, however, never sacrifices beauty to the purely practical. In the dark georgette crepe frocks we have this combination. No fabric has yet been able to supplant the good, substantial navy blue georgette crepe for wear on hot days, offering as it does the advantages of coolness and lightness.

There are those who, in their desire to help reduce the high cost of living, talk of the economy of gingham, but a gingham dress is never an economy—rather it is a luxury to be enjoyed in the country. In the first place, gingham is anything but inexpensive, and, furthermore, frocks made from them require frequent and careful laundering, which under existing conditions means constant additional expense. Even with the best of care they never look quite the same after a visit to the laundry.

Real Organdie Flowers.

Although we have seen a great deal of taffeta during the last year, its glory has not yet been dimmed. We have had it combined with organdie in an infinite number of ways, but no lovelier union of these two has appeared than is seen in the models made entirely of silk and decked with huge white organdie flowers applied with long, loose stitches of dark thread. The flowers are not cut from flat pieces of the muslin, but are twisted deftly and shaped so that they are bold and puffy. The pieces simulating leaves are veined with the dark thread. In a dress of this sort the white appears also in the bodice in the form of a front which extends over the skirt

Kofe Karikari, the King of Ashanti? It disappeared in 1896 and has never been seen since. On it the Ashanti chiefs had sat and dispensed their own peculiar form of justice from the earliest days and, so far as is known, it is still concealed in the innermost recesses of their land. But it would be a brave European who openly attempted to track it to its hiding place, and there is just a possibility that it has been privately sold during a period of financial stress.

Kofe Karikari, the King of Ashanti?

In 1873, behaved in an even more suspicious manner. He secretly opened the mausoleum of his ancestors and robbed their bodies of the golden ornaments without which no Ashanti of any means is ever lowered into the tomb.

It would never have been discovered had not the lynx eyes of the queen-mother observed that the favorite wives of the king were inexplicably wearing rings and bracelets of antique workmanship. A little investigation and she denounced him publicly.

An admission of his guilt was the only thing left for King Kofe. He had sold the major proportion of his plunder, so he magnificently informed his chiefs that he intended to blow himself and them up with gunpowder in order to obliterate his shame. "We are quite ready to die as you request," was their reply, "but blow yourself up first." It is perhaps superfluous to add that King Kofe did nothing of the sort.

Gave it to Children and Grand-children

Mrs. V. M. Katz, 592 Armandale St., N. S., Pittsburg, Pa., writes: "I gave Foley's Honey and Tar to my little grandson when he had a bad cold and it did him lots of good. I used a lot of it when my own children were small." It must have merit to hold the leadership generation after generation. H. P. Dunn, druggist.

KID BROAD WITH BILLIE BURKE

"Wanted—A Husband" Marks Ninth Appearance of Ring Charmer—At Best Tonight

Kid Broad, the pugilist who once aspired to the featherweight championship, has blossomed out as a motion picture actor and is one of the leading lights in the cast supporting Billie Burke in "Wanted—A Husband" at the Best theatre tonight. This isn't the kid's first appearance on the screen, as he has already some eighty-nine performances before the camera to his credit. To those acquainted with his battle-worn features, much the worse for the poundings he frequently took in the ring, it's a cinch that he didn't get his cinema job because of his resemblance to Wallace Reid or Francis X. Bushman.

At the present day Coomassie looks more like an Indian town than any other on the coast, and it is the pride of its residents that socially it is also like India. There are real grass tennis courts, a real regimental band, and, before the war, there was the best polo team in the colony. Such it is today, and yet, only twenty years ago, the quaint little fort in the center of the town was the scene of one of the grimiest sieges of Britain's many frontier wars.

Only the fact that all eyes were turned on South Africa at that time prevented the siege of Coomassie from taking its proper place in history. But we who have experienced the inconveniences and discomforts of trekking "de luxe," and who know how much is needed in this part of the world to make life even bearable, can appreciate somewhat the sufferings borne by the defenders of the fort and the agonizing suspense that they endured until they heard the first shots of the relieving force.

The chief commissioner of Ashanti now lives in the fort which gave its meager protection to Captain Bishop, Lieutenant Ralph and Dr. Hay, with their 125 soldiers, during those interminable weeks. One now has an evening gin and bitters on the very spot from which those three officers could see the fires of burning villages and hear the wailing of starving women and children. The Ashantis themselves seem to have shot their last bolt in the way of "frightfulness," however, and no longer rank among the brave tribes of the colony. Only one trace of the romance of the past remains.

Where is the golden stool of Ashanti?

It disappeared in 1896 and has never been seen since. On it the Ashanti chiefs had sat and dispensed their own peculiar form of justice from the earliest days and, so far as is known, it is still concealed in the innermost recesses of their land. But it would be a brave European who openly attempted to track it to its hiding place, and there is just a possibility that it has been privately sold during a period of financial stress.

In 1873, behaved in an even more suspicious manner. He secretly opened the mausoleum of his ancestors and robbed their bodies of the golden ornaments without which no Ashanti of any means is ever lowered into the tomb.

PROHIBITION AND INSURANCE

A medical report submitted to the convention of the National Union Assurance Society says that prohibition has eliminated the chief occupational hazard. "To a certain extent hazards have been lifted from all occupations," says the report, "although there are some where this is not the case. Two-thirds of the reported cases of lead-poisoning occur among painters. This hazard, of course, is not affected by the eighteenth amendment, but it is one of very few which are not."

The disastrous effects prophesied by opponents of prohibition have so far failed to materialize. The grape-growers have not gone bankrupt. The breweries are for the most part usefully and profitably employed. The nation as a whole has not taken to drugs. Instead, judging from the noontime appearance of any big plant or building in construction, it seems to have taken to milk.

Eventually, prohibition bids fair to reduce the premium on many forms of insurance, including life, accident and automobile liability. This blessed result has not yet come to pass, but all the other results so far indicate it as a logical outcome of the situation.

It appears that Prince Joachim, who recently committed suicide, had a streak of insanity. So he wasn't much different from the rest of the Hohenzollern family.

HIGHER PRICES, OR LOWER

The public has heard much about the "peak of prices." Over and over again it has been supposedly reached, only to recede as mountain peaks have a way of doing when a traveler is climbing the foothills. Are we still in the foothills of prices, or on the topmost summit?

It depends, probably, on whether wages and profits are at their apex. If either wages or profits, or both, should go down, prices would certainly take a drop. There might be a fall in prices even with wages and profits at their present level, if production and distribution were speeded up. But if either wages or profits rise further, prices may be expected to rise with them.

This has its bearing directly on the present railroad situation. The employees have just been given a wage raise which, though not great in any individual instance, and no more than the men deserve, is vast in the aggregate. The railroads are now to be given a raise in rates, to take care of these higher wages and provide means for their guaranteed profits. Thus the public will be obliged, immediately, to pay more for freight and passenger service. This will have its effect on prices.

The natural result would be to raise prices to a higher level than ever. It is generally believed, the present price tendency is downward, the two may about balance each other, that there will be no general price advance now. This is probably as hopeful a view as the situation justifies.

If the movement stops there, all may be well. Eventually, then, prices will really start downward, with assurance of continuing their course. But if the railroad employees start right in planning for another wage-raising campaign, and the railroad operators start looking ahead to another rate-raise, how can prices ever subside?

Measuring Height of Trees.

To measure the height of a tree which stands so that the length of the shadow can be measured, set a stick upright, letting it form right angle with the surface of the ground. As the length of the shadow of the stick is to the height of the stick, so is the length of the shadow of the tree to the height of the tree. The tree must stand so the length of its shadow can be measured. Multiply the length of the shadow of the tree by the height of the stick, and divide by the length of the shadow of the stick.

Girls on Strike are All Brainerd Girls and So City is Interested in the Outcome

Seventeen girls of the Northwestern Telephone Exchange company of Brainerd, who walked out as a protest because of the dismissal of the president of their union are still out, out.

Unions of the city are furnishing the girls funds planned to equal the wages the girls received.

The company has made no further statement since giving out a written one that "whatever difficulty existed in the local exchange at the present time so far as the company knew, was caused by a matter of discipline, and no other questions were involved".

Telephone girls, it is reported, have been sent to Brainerd from Little Falls and St. Cloud to fill the places of those on strike. The girls who walked out are all Brainerd girls and so Brainerd people are deeply interested in the outcome of the matter.

J. J. TUCKER FOR LOWER HOUSE

AGAINST GARDNER OF BRAINERD

Friend Want Him to Occupy Place Formerly Held by Charles W. Bouck

(From Transcript, Little Falls) If the political bee had not heretofore buzzed around J. J. Tucker, that gentleman, who was in the city yesterday, went to his Ft. Ripley home last night with the knowledge that a lot of Little Falls people would like to see him represent Morrison and Crow Wing counties in the state legislature.

Mr. Tucker was in the city yesterday on business and his visit furnished the occasion his friends have been waiting for.

He was waited on by a delegation of representative local men and invited to make the race to fill the vacancy left by the death of the Royerton man. Those who talked with him state that Mr. Tucker would give no definite answer but his friends are confident that he will enter the field against Gardner of Brainerd, who is endorsed by the socialists.

Mr. Tucker has a wide acquaintance in both counties and his business is such that he is in a position to make an active and effective campaign if he decides to enter the race.

A recent ruling does not allow for the placing of another name on the regular ballot in place of the late C. W. Bouck and the man who takes up the fight against Gardner must do so through stickers. This means a hard fight, but friends of the Ft. Ripley man state that they are willing to put up a battle and believe he can be elected, even though it has to be done with stickers. His standing in Crow Wing county insures a big vote for him there and a thorough survey of the situation indicates a seat for him in the next session of the legislature.

State Gets $221,000 Royalty

Nearly 900,000 tons of iron ore were taken from the state owned mineral properties during the three months ending June 30, under leases to the Oliver Iron Mining company of Duluth. The company today paid to the state treasurer $220,000 of royalties for that quarterly period.

The revenue is credited to state trust funds and with other receipts will be loaned to schools and cities by the state investment board.

The Popular Summer Resort of Geo. R. West will be scene of boating, bathing, Etc.

Boating, bathing, fishing, Etc., will be the amusements of the day, thus offering a most pleasant occasion for recreation. Every family will take a well filled lunch basket. There is a refreshment stand at West's handling ice cream and other refreshments.

There is no set program for the day. Lodge members will leave by car early in the morning and the run out can be made in a very short time. Some of the lodge members, blessed with cars, are showing their brotherly spirit by offering to make several trips to haul out other members and their families.

ATKIN COMMISSIONERS VISIT SANATORIUM

(Aitkin Independent-Age)

The Aitkin-Crow Wing counties sanatorium near Deerwood was inspected by the Aitkin County board Tuesday. Upon their return they were free to admit that they were not pleased with conditions.

The site is not the best, but the approach to the place and the grounds are in bad condition and need trimming out. The porch is not screened and patients must stay inside or fight mosquitos in the open.

The management was not indorsed and the board seemed to regret a two-county arrangement and intimated that inasmuch as the property was in Crow Wing county they might entertain a proposition to dispose of this county's interest in it and terminate the present plan for caring for Aitkin county patients.

Art and Genius. A work of art may be admirably constructed, and yet be null as regards every essentiality of that trust art which is but the happiest development of nature; but no work of art can embody within itself a proper originality without giving the plumbest manifestations of the creative spirit, or, in more common parlance, of genius in its author—Edgar Allan Poe.

Unfair to Both Parties. When you ask for a standard article in its line and a substitute or imitation is forced upon you, two parties are wronged by the transaction—yourself and the maker of the article you wanted. It pays to get genuine Foley Kidney Pills for backache, rheumatic pains and other symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble. H. P. Dunn, druggist.

It Is Iron In The Blood
That Makes Iron Muscles Like These—

Physician Explains a Secret of the Great Power and Endurance of Athletes—Tells How Organic Iron Nuxated Iron Helps Build Rich, Red Blood

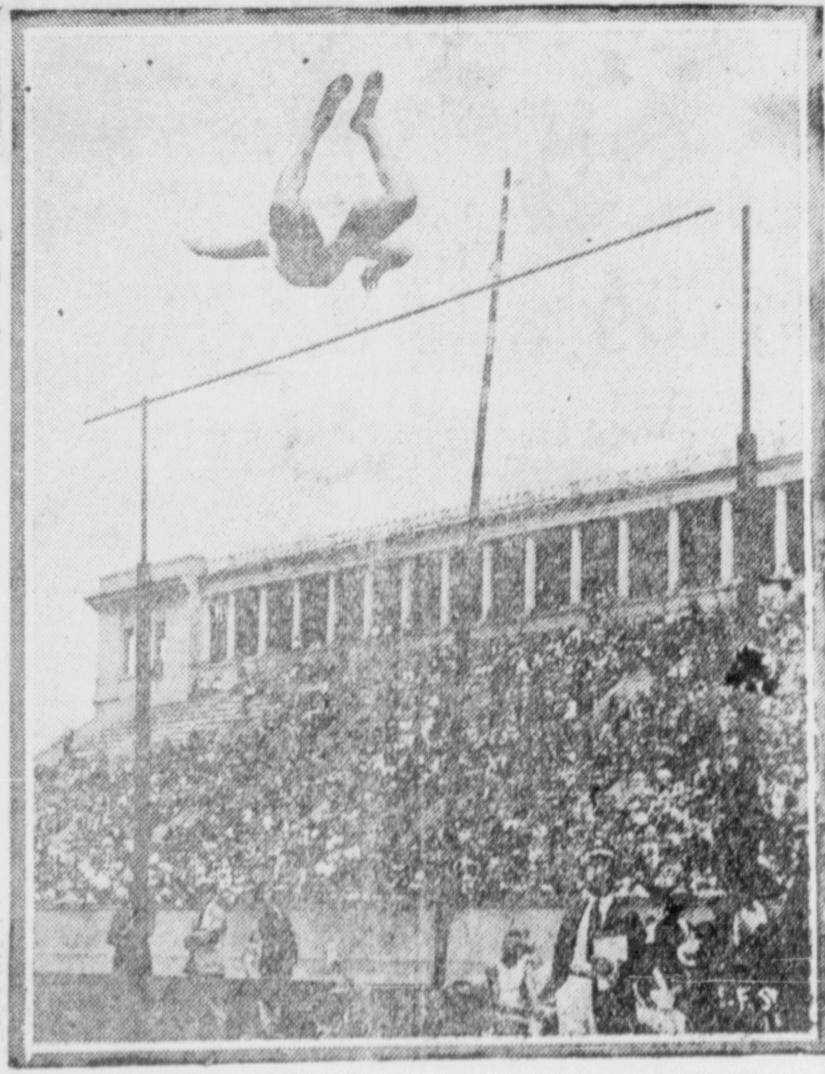

That Gives Physical Strength and Energy

To touch the arm of a strong, sturdy man—to feel the steel-like firmness of those muscular sinews—to think of the tremendous force and power that must be behind such strength—these are thrills that come to the thin-blooded men and women whose own bodies are weak and physically unfit.

It takes men of reddened force and power to play the sledgehammer blows that count—and whether you are a plodder or a hard奔走者, you cannot expect to win against men forever unless you are a man of iron—constantly able to strike hard.

"There are countless numbers of men today who at 40 are broken in health and steadily going down to physical and mental decay," says Dr. Louis H. Hirsch, Medical Director and Clinical Physician on the Board of Health of New York City. "Yet there are thousands of such men who undergo a most remarkable transformation the moment they get plenty of the right kind of iron in their system and increased energy and endurance. To help build stronger, healthier men and women, better able physically to meet the problems of everyday life, I believe that physicians should, at every opportunity, urge their patients to take iron. In my experience it is one of the best tonic and red blood builders known to medical science."

GOT BILL'S GOAT

He Simply Couldn't Understand About Wife's Hands.

Bill is wearing gloves!

Any time you see Bill wearing gloves know ye that something has occurred. It may be a death and Bill may be going to attend the funeral, or it may be that Bill is bound for a wedding, or else there is always the chance that the Improved Order of Joints is going to have some sort of a ceremonial and Bill is going to be a participant. It was a knowledge of this peculiarity which caused all to look at Bill in an inquiring sort of way when he came in 'tother night and which prompted Joe to ask: "What's the big idea, Bill, that you've got your fins covered?"

"Wife stink."

Bill said no more. You'll agree that it was far from a satisfactory explanation. Joe voiced the sentiment when he remarked, petulant like, "that's a h—j of a reason!"

"Huh?"

It was plain Bill wasn't going to be voluble on this subject of "them" gloves. Now if there is one thing in this world that Joe delights in more than another it is in pecking away at Bill, and Bill equally enjoys seeking to harass that person's nanny.

"I said that wasn't much of a reason," repeated Joe. "My wife's been sick and I didn't wear gloves; don't see no reason on earth why you should be wearing gloves just because the Missus is ill, unless you're expecting her to pass over and are making preliminary arrangements for the services."

That nettled Bill. "Smart, aren't you," he asserted. "It's the great wonder of my life that some of the funny papers like the Undertakers' Herald haven't engaged you to conduct their humorous column. You're about as funny, as, as—as a stick of wood. Now you're so darned inquisitive, just look at them."

Say, but you ought to have seen 'em, Red! A fresh boiled lobster was a dark blue compared to those hands!

"There's the answer," says Bill. "The wife's been sick and I've been doing the housework. I didn't mind it much at first, sort of fun, you know. Made me think I was some cheese around the house. Didn't do it just because I wanted to, but because I had to. Couldn't get any help and the wife had to be cared for, had to have a bite to eat and the house had to be looked after. I did it; yes, I did. I cooked and I swept and I washed dishes and, believe me, I did some chore, but gosh almighty, I don't understand it yet, why my hands got so blasted red."

"Just look at 'em." Again Bill displayed those hands. "Look at 'em; aren't they beauties! Honest, the only thing I can think of every time I look at those hands is Joe's nose before the first of last July."

"Those hands, I say, began to get red. They got redder and redder until they're what you see displayed before you. Will they stop there? I dunno. But this here is what gets me: When the wife is on her feet doing the work, she does 100 times as much as I've been doing; she not only washes the dishes, but she scrubs the floors and washes the clothes and cleans the house and gosh only knows what and, by hooky, I've yet to see her hands when they look even slightly red. What's the answer? Tell me?"

—Sam, in Lewiston Journal.

Bell New Shaving Brush.

When you buy a shaving brush, boil it, thoroughly before using it or leave it for four hours in a 10 per cent dilution of formaldehyde liquor at 110 degrees F. Either of these methods will protect you from anthrax.

Before the war there was little danger of anthrax from the shaving brush, as almost all of these were made from hair that had been thoroughly disinfected in France or Germany; but after 1914 the hair came direct from Russia and China via the Pacific ocean, and twenty cases of anthrax have been traced directly to this source.

As 64 per cent of anthrax cases are fatal it behoves us to be extra careful, in spite of the fact that human susceptibility is low—how low is indicated by the fact that only one case is known to have developed from a lot of 10,000 infected brushes.

Roundabout Way Home.

Four thousand Czech-Slovakian men on transport bound from Siberia to France, en route home, with their Russian wives, landed in Norfolk, Va., recently to await repairs to their ship. It was impossible for them to return home through Russia, so they had to make the roundabout trip. During the trip children were cared for by the Red Cross workers and Y. W. C. A. secretaries who had been in France and Russia during the war. The Y. M. C. A. looked after the men.

David Warned Against This.

"I shall never forget the look on her face when she found me in her pew," said the plainly dressed woman. "You were evidently sitting in the seat of the scornful," remarked her friend.—Boston Transcript.

Humming Bird Awes Woodchuck.

"The dimensions of an intruder were not considered at all by Sir Ruby," says R. L. Brasher, writing of a humming bird. "A flat lazy woodchuck, sitting upright on his hind legs, calmly chewing a sprig of leaves and surrounded by an admiring circle of Leghorns, was informed in no uncertain manner that he was outside of his domain. He returned to his proper territory with an abruptness which scattered the hens in a wild flurry of cackling. Perhaps the sudden change from lethargy to action aroused the suspicion that he was a fox in groundhog's fur!"—Boy's Life.

Rabbit Drives in Washington.

Jack rabbits to the number of 35,000 have sacrificed their lives in the drives recently undertaken in eastern Washington under the supervision of the biological survey. The demand for the meat in the larger cities of the Northwest proved to be good. White-tailed rabbits brought $2.50 a dozen, and the black-tailed variety sold for about $2. Preference was shown for those which had been shot rather than harried and clubbed. The carcasses, to be salable, should be drawn as soon as possible after they are killed. It is pointed out, an extension of the campaign is planned.

Radical Notions.

"I hearn tell," said Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge upon his return from the county seat, "that they are fiddin' on putting a pipe organ into the new church in town."

"Well, it may be all right for them that likes it that-away," severely returned Mrs. Johnson, "but as for me I'm plum agin smokin' in church!"—Kansas City Star.

Sure Sign.

"Wife started housecleaning yet?" "Guess so. She's begun telling the neighbors that I'm not a bit of use around the house."—Detroit Free Press.

States' Quarrel Adjusted.

In 1907 a suit was brought by the state of Virginia against the state of West Virginia in the United States Supreme court to compel the latter state to assume its proportion of the state debt created prior to 1861, when West Virginia separated from the other state. The suit was pending in the Supreme court until June, 1915, when that body handed down a decision holding that West Virginia should pay Virginia $12,393,929 as its net share of the debt. In addition West Virginia was required to pay $8,178,000 in interest. The court held, however, that West Virginia was entitled to a share of the assets arising from the original principal debt, and fixed that amount at $2,900,000.
